

SEMI-AUTOMATIC JAR OPENER

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The present disclosure is a semi-automatic jar opener made up of a lower part provided with an electric motor allowing to squeeze the jar in accordance with the desired size and to make turn it, and of an upper part allowing to adjust manually the height of jar, and when the plate from the lower part turns, the jaws squeeze the lid for unscrew the jar.